The Columbia Gorge Racing Association is a non-profit, all-volunteer organization dedicated to bringing world-class sailing events to the Columbia River Gorge. Founded in 1996 by a group of Northwest sailors who saw the potential for Cascade Locks to become a world-class sailing venue, CGRA has since hosted more than 60 major sailing events, including most recently the 2016 Laser North American Championships, RS Aero US National Championships as well as the 2015 Moth and Melges 24 US National Championships.

CGRA is committed to performance sailing and has earned a reputation for excellence in regatta management. CGRA's events draw 2,000 participants and their families from all over the world to the Gorge each summer. In addition to hosting regattas and training clinics for competitive sailors, CGRA offers a popular learn-to-sail program for kids in Cascade Locks and the surrounding area. We also conduct an ongoing fundraising campaign to improve the sailing facilities and activities in Cascade Locks and welcome the assistance of donors and volunteers who share our vision for quality sailing programs in the Gorge.
